'God Bless The U.S.A'

Eighth U.S. Army Band Vocalist Jamie Buckley

"Music is an international language. It can break down barriers and strengthen relationships. I sang 'God Bless The USA'. I've sang that song a million times, it's always special. But, every once in a while, I get to sing it at event that makes it even more so. Last night was one of those events"

Dool Kim "I know

51 years ago today, the Korean War broke out. It was a meaningful event. 51 years ago, we fought together to keep peace and freedom in this country. And today we performed music together to remember those who gave their life to defend Korea. We should remember that"

U.S. company, Moller International, has developed a Skycar, a mini-airplane that can travel at speeds of about 380 miles (620 km) an hour and reach an altitude of 30,000 feet from a vertical takeoff.

Moller spokesman Jack Allison said the vehicle would lift off on their inaugural flight in California at the end of the July.

He said the Skycar had a range of 560 miles (600 km) and could carry four passengers in a pressurized cabin.

At the moment a prototype vehicle cost $995,000 but the company hopes eventually to be able to offer the Skycar for roughly a price of a traditional car.

Moller this summer plans to seeking certification from the Federal Aviation Administration for the Skycar.
